ABSTRACT

This report lists resources and resource agencies in Delaware, District of Columbia, Kentucky, New Jersey, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia that offer services, materials, and assistance to those involved or interested in the education of linguistic minority students. The focus of the listing is on Title VII funded projects and other federally funded agencies whose services may impact on linguistic minority students, as well as on non-profit professional and/or community organizations which may provide information, training, or materials to educators working with linguistic minority students. The following information is given for each listing: (1) name; (2) address; (3) telephone number; (4) contact persons; (5) clientele; (6) geographic area served; (7) services provided; and (8) materials available. Information on other state and special programs for limited English speaking students is included as well as a glossary of Title VII program types. (PS)

INTRODUCTION

The following listing of resources in Region 3 has been compiled by the Georgetown University BESC as an effort to foster cooperation and coordination among those involved or interested in the education of linguistic minority students. The focus of the listing is on Title VII funded projects (at the district, higher education and state levels), other federally funded agencies (such as the OERI Centers and Laboratories, Migrant Education, Refugee Programs and National Origin Desegregation Assistance Centers) whose services may impact on linguistic minority students, as well as those non-profit professional and/or community organizations who may provide assistance in the form of information, training or materials to educators working with linguistic minority students.

The agencies and organizations included in the listing are those who responded to an invitation to coordinate with the Center, or those who were named as valuable resources by national, state or local entities. Non-profit agencies and organizations who are not included in this listing, but who would like to be included in future editions are invited to fill in the agency review form on page 106 and return it, along with any pertinent informational brochures, lists of publications or services to:

SERVICES PROVIDED:	Section 141/Migrant Education of the Bureau of Basic Education of the Pennsylvania Department of Education offers supplemental educational services to the children of migratory agricultural workers. Eight project sites exist throughout the Commonwealth to meet the needs of children of those who cross school district lines to seek employment in agriculture or agri-related industry. English as a Second Language and Bilingual Education services are available through the eight project sites. Section 143C Projects: TEACH is an interstate/interagency project that emphasizes the benefits and prevention of potential hazards of pesticides to migrant children and their families through the development and dissemination of curriculum units for levels K through Junior High. The project also provides training for educators and health personnel interested in the proper use of the materials (Spanish/English).

HAPPIER is an interstate/interagency project that identifies the most pressing needs and priorities for health resource materials (Spanish/English). The Resource Guide and the information contained in a computerized database are available to educators and health personnel across the nation by dialing a toll-free telephone number.

MERLIN is a computerized educational information database designed to improve intrastate and interstate coordination of migrant education, migrant health and human services activities. The project provides, at no cost, information on people, programs, and writtren material and literature search service of other databases in the nation.

CARE is the establishment of a network of partnership representatives to be trained by the Project in the process of developing a partnership program at the state/regional level for the enhancement of migrant education nationwide. The development of training strategies for migrant staff, the distribution of a catalogue of existing partnership efforts and a manual of corporate/community resources for states, will ultimately serve to increase program quality through the researching and implementation of additional resources for program support.

MR. ROGERS will develop, through Family Communications, Inc., producers of Mister Rogers Neighborhood, three 12-15 minute video tapes with accompanying print materials addressing the area of self-esteem of young migrant children.

EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES INFORMATION CENTER (ERIC) CLEARINGHOUSES

Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) is a nationwide information network for acquiring, selecting, abstracting, indexing, storing, retrieving, and disseminating significant and timely education-related reports. It consists of a coordinating staff in Washington, DC and 16 clearinghouses located at universities or with professional organizations across the country. These clearinghouses, each responsible for a particular educational area, are an integral part of the ERIC system.

In addition to collecting the literature of education for announcement in Resources in Education and Current Index to Journals in Education, the ERIC clearinghouses analyze and synthesize the literature in a number of different formats designed to compress the vast amount of information available and to meet the varying needs of ERIC users. These formats include research reviews, state-of-the-art studies, interpretive studies on topics of high current interest, research briefs, annotated bibliographies, and compilations. While some publications are comprehensive reviews designed for those who are interested in pursuing a subject in depth, others are brief analyses designed for the busy practitioner whose time for staying abreast of new developments in education is limited.

ERIC publications are published either by the ERIC clearinghouses responsible for producing them or through cooperative arrangements with other organizations. Copies are usually available directly from the responsible clearinghouse or from the source listed in the citation.

GLOSSARY OF TITLE VII PROGRAM TYPES

The following is an introduction to the major instructional programs funded under the 1984 Bilingual Education Act.1/

Transitional Bilingual Education Programs

Transitional programs, designed for LEP children, combine structured English language instruction with a native language component. These programs also incorporate the students' cultural heritage into the curriculum.

Developmental Bilingual Education Programs

Developmental programs are full-time instructional programs of English and second language instruction designed to help children achieve competence in English and a second language. Classes shall, where possible, include approximately equal numbers of native English speakers and those LEP students whose native language is the second language of instruction and study.

Special Alternative Instructional Programs

Special alternative instructional programs for LEP students are specially designed programs in which native language instruction need not be used. The curriculum is comprised of English language instruction and special instructional services intended to facilitate the achievement of English competency.

1/ National Clearinghouse for Bilingual Education. (1985). The 1984 Bilingual Education Act. Rosslyn, VA: Author.

Academic Excellence Programs

Academic excellence programs are programs of transitional bilingual education, developmental bilingual education, or special alternative instruction that have an established record of providing effective, academically excellent instruction for limited-English-proficient (LEP) students. These programs must be designed to serve as models of exemplary bilingual education programs and to disseminate information on effective bilingual education practices.

Family English Literacy Programs

Family English literacy programs are designed to help adults and out-of-school youth achieve English language competency. Preference for inclusion in the instructional program will be given to the immediate families of LEP students in programs funded under this Act. The program curriculum will include instruction on how parents and family members can assist LEP children with educational achievement. The language of instruction may be English only or English and the native language.

Special Population Programs

Under the Act, one- to three-year grants may be awarded to local education agencies, institutions of higher education, and private nonprofit organizations to conduct preschool, special education, and gifted and talented programs. The programs, however, are to be "preparatory or supplementary to programs such as those assisted under this Act."

Instructional Materials Development Programs

Programs to develop instructional materials in languages for which materials are commercially unavailable.
